For our discussion sessions, we will be using a program called Fuze. This software allows us to setup a virtual classroom, essentially as a large conference call. We welcome any feedback regarding the use of Fuze during this course.

Below is a quick guide for how to get started.

1. Goto the URL provided for the weekly discussion. Either click it, or copy-paste it into your web browser of choice.

2. When prompted, install the Fuze software (Windows and Mac are supported). Installation is done just once for the semester. If it is already installed, it should open Fuze.

3. Complete the installation steps.

4. Fuze will automatically open and attempt to join the discussion (meeting). This will only work if the instructor is active, i.e., if it is during the meeting time for the discussion section.

5. Before entering the meeting, you may type in your name. But no webcams or microphones. That’s the rule for now. So you need to disable your computer’s microphone and its webcam.

6. Enter the discussion. Please mute yourself unless the instructor says otherwise. You may use the chat window to ask questions. Please reserve the main group chat window for class-specific questions only.
